Remodeling Kerala, the way forward.

Remodeling, as a concept, is different from restructuring; it signals the existence of several desirable aspects in the present product. The much spoken of "Kerala Model of development" has several functional features. So, we need not reconstruct the entire model. Instead, we have to review and decide as to which elements in the present set-up have outlived their utility and have to be discarded. We also have to look at the new inputs to be integrated into the system, to enable Kerala to gain (or regain) its rightful position among the Indian states. We hope that the discussions in this convention will give us a road map for further progress and a blue print of what our product will look like, after the remodeling.
